Forecast for Thursday 14 Sep 2023

Weather: Any mist or fog clearing quickly, leaving a bright start to Wednesday. Becoming increasingly cloudy from the west through the morning with outbreaks of patchy rain and drizzle, mainly confined to western or northwestern hills. Rain and cloud generally clearing northwards through the evening leaving some clear spells overnight, with mist and fog re-forming in prone locations.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 90% to start, decreasing to 30% through the middle part of the day. Increasing to 80% later.

Low cloud and visibility: Early mist or fog perhaps covering slopes and hill tops as it lift and clears. Cloud will initially be above the summits, but will lower through the morning to have bases around 400-500m, particularly in the west of the park. Cloud bases slowly rising towards 800m through the afternoon and breaking up. Poor or very poor visibility in low cloud, mist or fog, and in any rain or drizzle, otherwise good

Meteorologist's View

Rain and drizzle could make paths slippery, and low cloud could bring poor visibility to the highest peaks, so extra care may be needed when navigating.
